

Friday the 13th: Blairstown Becomes Scarestown!

WEIRD NEW JERSEY
BY MARK & MARK
POSTED: JUL 9, 2018

This Friday we'll be celebrating "Friday the 13th" in Blairstown, NJ, where much of the classic 1979 slasher horror film of that name was shot. Mark and Mark, publishers of Weird NJ, will be signing copies of the magazine and selling other weird stuff too at the Slash and Shop Marketplace at 27 Main Street, which will feature 12 vendors.

There will also be two meet and greets with stars from the film series; actors Steve Dash (Jason Voorhees, Part 2) and Robbi Morgan (Annie Phillips, Part 1).

Visit the Blairstown Museum for an all day celebration. Take photos in front of iconic movie locations such as the Roy's Hall and enjoy museum exhibits which include autographed memorabilia like Tom Savini's "Jason" reproduction, and the original DINER letters.

You can find out more about all of the goings on that day at the Blairstown Museum's WEB SITE and their Facebook page for the EVENT.

Be sure to look around, you never know where the real-life Jason is lurking...
